

Worship for Sunday, Feb. 4

The Season of Epiphany comes to a close this Sunday with a service that emphasizes God's care, in the prophecies from Isaiah (Isaiah 40:21-31), and in the healing ministries of Jesus (Mark 1:29-39). The sermon will be called "Grasshopper Faith." Worship is at 10:30 a.m. There will be Sunday school for all ages at 9:30.

Bring a mug for your coffee or tea this Sunday! We have two volunteers from Leonia High School getting service hours and Legos for their school Lego club by washing our mugs from coffee hour. They are only booked for this Sunday, so let's try to have a green Sunday this week and hope to repeat it again. You may leave your mug as a donation (we have 8 so far) or bring it back home with you.

Our book group reading This Here Flesh by Cole Arthur Riley is having great discussion! Join us on Zoom on Wednesdays from 10:45-noon or read on your own. Here is the link:

In Our Prayers...

Hear our prayers, God, as we share these joys and concerns:

- For Laura Collins, who was awarded payment by the court for disability income, after waiting, being denied, and waiting again.
- For Scott Carroll, after the film Nimona was nominated for an Oscar in the Best Animated Feature Film category; Scott served as Head of Animation in the production of Nimona.
- For Eulalia who is trying a new treatment for tinnitus.
- For Fran who is in quarantine in his nursing facility.
- For Ellen who has started a new job!
- For negotiations to prevail over violence in the Holy Land, and for a pathway to statehood for Palestinians.
